

STARRS LEADERS IN LYCEUM CIRCLES

Husband and Wife Appear in All Engagements.

For seven years Wilbur Starr has been famous in Lyceum circles. As a baritone singer he is unsurpassed, and fortunate is the audience that has heard him give a song recital. Each year he has added new features to his programs until now he is rated among the most versatile of entertainers. He has originality and conceives new entertainment features every year. Several years ago he won first prize for

Some of Wilbur Starr's Characters. the best original entertainment feature offered that year at the great annual program of the International Lyceum association. His offering created a sensation among the assembled hundreds of professional Lyceum people, who are the most difficult people in the world to entertain. His ability as an impersonator, using wigs and make-up in view of the audience, is one of the surprises of the program. Few are able to equal him in his versatility and in his ability to do so many different things and do them well. Mrs. Starr has accompanied her husband for all his Lyceum engagements and is a fine artist—a pianist and cellist of genuine ability. They work together with such harmony as is not known in any other company, and the result is an artistic program of great variety. As proof of the musicianship of these artists, we need only say that for three years Mr. Starr sang leading roles in the Castle Square Opera company, and for three years was head of the musical department of the University of Missouri and the Nebraska Wesleyan university, and Mrs. Starr was his assistant.

The Starrs will give the fourth number of the Normal lecture course in college chapel Friday and Saturday evenings, Feb. 27 and 28.

JOHN POISON" BARLEYCORN

The expected has happened over at New York. William H. Anderson, newly appointed superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of that state, has exploded his first bomb under the influence of the saloon. He has hitherto enjoyed so "comfy" an existence. A bill requiring labels bearing the skull and cross bones and the words "alcohol" and "poison" in bold type on all bottles containing beer, whisky or other alcoholic beverages containing more than two per cent alcohol and offered for sale in package form, has been introduced in the New York assembly. It is backed by the Anti-Saloon League of New York and is drawn in the form of an amendment to the penal code in relation to the sale of poisons without label and the recording of such sales.

Will it be fought? With clashing paraphernalia of the devil. But New York saloonists must understand that in the personage of the new superintendent they have a man who has faced Beckenbush so often, and grappled with him so daringly that he cares not a snap of the finger for noise or threats or bullying opposition. The progress of this fight (for every effort toward freeing a community from drink assumes of necessity the proportions of a strenuous contest) will be watched with great interest. We confess it seems a little unique, but perfectly fair. Whisky is a poison, as has been so often proven. To is a body-wrecker comes under the head of misrepresentation of goods.

If New York can establish a precedent, what a plight will come over the "trade." To stamp a skull and cross bones on its flag and adopt "Poison" for its motto would just about put the devil's agents out of business.—N. W. Christian Advocate.

OFFICER OF THREE CHURCHES

Edifice Still Standing Proud of Washington's Connection With Their History.

Three churches in Virginia hold proud claim to close connection with George Washington, in each of which he held the position of vestryman. One of these is Christ church, in Alexandria; another, Falls church, in the town of the same name (about six miles southwest of Washington, in Fairfax county); the third is old Pohick church in Mount Vernon parish, so called for Pohick creek, a small stream flowing close by. The last named was the "home" church of Washington, and that to which he was most closely allied, having served as warden and vestryman in it for over twenty years, and contributing generously to its support.

Of Christ church he was a frequent attendant, as business often called him to Alexandria (which place was his post office, voting and market place) for considerable periods; and especially it was this true after the Revolution, when Pohick church (which suffered severely from the misfortunes of war) was frequently closed. With Falls church he had a somewhat slighter connection and for a shorter period.
